Five New Breakthroughs

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, March 28 (AP)—The German high command said today Third Army tanks had crashed into Gemuenden, 218 miles southwest of Berlin, but had been driven out. The enemy assertion came while four or five others of Gen. Eisenhower's armies were surging through wide breakthroughs in disintegrating German lines. The First Army reached the Giessen area, 225 miles from the capital. The Seventh Army drove 32 miles beyond the Rhine, reached the river Main and formed with the Third and First Armies a solid front on the rolling tank country of inner Germany.

The British Second Army slashed 25 miles deep in Westphalia, menacing Muenster, its capital.

The Ninth Army was cleaning up the western part of the Ruhr—completely outflanked by the First Army on the south and half outflanked by the British on the north. Canadians burst into the eastern outskirts of the Rhine bastion of Emmerich.

Japan Strafed By Navy Pilots

By Associated Press

Carrier planes bombed and strafed the southernmost shores of Japan today Tokyo radio reported between broadcasts warning that an increasing number of American warships were bombarding the Ryukyu islands, preparatory to an invasion of Okinawa, 325 miles southwest of Nippon.

On Cebu Jap incendiaries fire the Philippines, second largest city, as invading Japs overrun Jap positions and drove to the outskirts of the city.

Tokyo reported Superforts struck again at Kyushu Island last midnight in their second raid with 12 hours on the southernmost island of Japan.

A Pacific Fleet communique announced Navy fliers from two Jima flew to within 150 miles of Tokyo. They hit three cargo ships near Hachijo Island, making a total of 14 Jap cargo ships damaged by land-based bombers over a 2000 mile arc.

Jap broadcasters contradicted one another in reporting developments in the Tokyo-announced U. S. invasion of the Kereama islands, 15 miles west of strategic Okinawa. One said "savage battles are raging" and reinforcements landed. Another reported "only a few" American assault troops reached shore.

Domei news agency added that invaders of Okinawa must "pay vastly more heavily" than the Marines did on Iwo Jima.

Adm. Nimitz was silent on the reported Kereama invasion, but confirmed previous enemy reports that the U. S. Fifth Fleet continued bombarding the Ryukyus yesterday while carrier planes of Task Force 58 continued their raid.

Gen. MacArthur, confirming the invasion of Cebu, said the American Division stormed ashore Monday through mortar fire. Almost simultaneously Japs put the torch to the city of Cebu.

Jap resistance along the once powerful Shimbu line, 20 miles east of Manila, was reported broken into isolated pockets as the 43rd Division captured Boso.

In central Burma remnants of 30,000 trapped Jap soldiers were reported concentrating for an escape drive eastward.

Seventy of Japan's leading fi-

PACIFIC THEATRE—American forces landed on Cebu island (A) in the Philippines against light resistance while Japanese reports persist that U. S. landings have been established on the Kereama islands, off the coast of Okinawa, in the Ryukyu chain. B-29s, meanwhile, have bombed Onga, naval air station in the Jap home island of Kyushu.

nanciers, enemy radio broadcasts said, have begun a 50,000,000 yen drive "to undertake relief work for those suffering from the ravages of war."

The huge Mitsui and Mitsubishi firms were asked for 3,000,000 yen each; the Sumitomo Bank for 3,000,000 and the Yasuda Bank for 2,000,000 yen.

The Germans said Gemuenden was reached yesterday in a mighty surge of Lt. Gen. Patton's forces 45 miles east of tottering Frankfurt and 110 miles from Czechoslovakia. The enemy's communique said the town "was recaptured" and 13 tanks were destroyed.

The said Third Army troops had captured and were using the radio inside Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany's ninth largest city, which the Third Army was conquering block by block.

The full extent of victories in the west still was obscured by partial security blackouts.

A dispatch from Third Army headquarters, filed by Thoburn Wiant four hours earlier than the German broadcast, said the easternmost advance of Patton's troops still was Aschaffenburg, 22 miles southeast of Frankfurt and 25 miles southwest of Gemuenden.

The enemy broadcast came as vast First Army tank and infantry forces rolled within 225 miles of the capital in a continued advance into the Giessen area 60-odd miles beyond the shattered Rhine line.

The American First, Third and Seventh armies and the British Second all had been achieving breakthroughs and were advancing inside inner Germany.

The Third Army's Fifth Division and Sixth Armored Divisions were engaged in the fight to clear Frankfurt. Its airport, second largest in Germany, was taken.

The western end of Frankfurt and its southern suburbs were in American hands. Suburban Offenbach, most important industrial center in Hesse and a city of 80,000, was captured. Frankfurt, largely in ruins, was a city of 546,000 before the war and one of Europe's greatest rail centers.

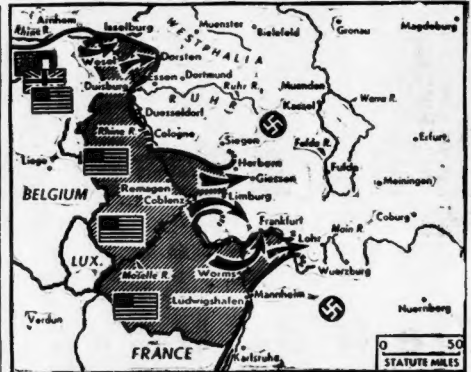

Two-thirds of Hanau-on-the-Main, 10 miles east, was captured; mopping up continued in Aschaffenburg.

"Germans respecting Wuerzburg and Nuernberg are completely erroneous," Wiant reported.

(The Germans said Third Army tank columns were threatening both cities. An American broadcast from Paris said Allied planes saw out tanks near Nuernberg yesterday.)

The 90th Division crossed the Main between Frankfurt and Hanau and advanced three miles north. The Third Army crossed WESTERN FRONT—Every Allied Army today drove deeper into Germany. The U. S. First thrust east into the Giessen area, 225 miles from Berlin, while other units plunged south toward Frankfurt where the U. S. Third captured the Frankfurt airfield. Other units of the latter Army (according to Nazi reports) reached almost to Wuerzburg, a scant 100 miles from the Czechoslovakian border. In the north, the U. S. Ninth and the British and Canadians swept out into the Westphalian plain against weakening resistance.

4 Red Armies Clamping Huge Pincers on Vienna

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—Four Russian armies hammered in a huge pincers on Czechoslovakia and Vienna today, and Berlin declared one thrust through western Hungary within 58 miles of Vienna now had rolled up to the central Raba river, guarding Austria.

A German broadcast declared the Soviets had forced a new crossing of the Oder river north-west of Kuestrin, 38 miles from Berlin. A Moscow dispatch reported the Russian supply system was "working all-out to prepare a spring offensive" on this front closest to Berlin.

Other Russian units were cleaning out Danzig, where the opening shots of this war were fired, and fighting into nearby Gdynia.

The German high command reported fierce street combat in both cities.

The Third Ukrainian army had slammed through sagging Nazi defenses below the Danube to within 20 miles of Austria and 58 of Vienna yesterday, and the German high command said Marshal Tolbukhin's men had thrust to the central Raba.

This advance might have been in the area of Sarvar, 13 miles from the Hungarian stronghold of Szombathely.

To the north the First and Fourth Ukrainian armies were lunging through German and Polish Silesia toward Czechoslovakia, hitting for the Moravian gap to Prague and Vienna.

This push from Silesia on an 80-mile front had struck to within 14 miles of Moravska-Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third city.

Dispatches from Moscow said the Red air force aided the tremendous Russian drives on a scale seldom equaled by Soviet planes.

Parliament Set For Hurry Call

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—Reliable reports today said emergency arrangements had been made for the recall of Parliament in event Germany collapsed during the Easter recess, which begins following adjournment tomorrow.

Allied advances on the West Front and the hour by hour change in the overall situation may result in Prime Minister Churchill postponing until after the recess his anticipated full report on the progress of the war.

Clark Sees Nazi Retreat in Italy

ROME, March 28 (AP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark, Allied commander in Italy, declared today that a German retreat northward was inevitable "sooner or later" and ordered patriots to stand by to strike at a moment's notice to hamper the withdrawal.

He said patriots in the central Apennine area would "be called upon to be of specific assistance to my armies shortly."

Strange Sights on Berlin Road

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AN AMERICAN ARMORED COLUMN IN INNER GERMANY, March 28 (AP)—Sights and scenes on the road to Berlin: Worn out by three days and nights of continuous advance, doughboys nod and fall asleep on iron beds—the backs of the tanks they are riding into battle.

German prisoners streaming back guardless with upraised hands are dirty, haggard and hungry . . . Breakdown of the Nazi supply system left them without food to feed themselves or shells to feed their guns . . . Yet almost every big forest is packed with stored tons of enemy ammunition and supplies.

Now that spring has returned the stink of death rises from the battlefields . . . That is the only virtue war has in winter—you can't smell it so much . . . Dogwood trees and fruit orchards bloom in meadow and hillside and soldiers look at them and think of home . . . Dead horses dot the countryside . . . The troops agree there is no smell worse than a dead horse . . . If they were killed close to a highway, someone douses the carcass with gasoline or oil and sets it afire.

A dust pall cloaks field and forest wherever tank columns churn . . . It is yellowish-gray dust and blankets every man and machine . . . It takes in the wrinkles of your face and neck and collects in small pockets of mud in the corners of your eyes . . . Doughboys tie pieces of cloth or rubber over rifle muzzles to keep it out . . . There has been no dust like this since the chalk-white clouds of Sicily, where walking was choking misery . . . The troops who fought there believe the Sicilian dust will never settle, but still hangs suspended in the air where it was stirred up by American boots, many of which tramp no more.

De Marignys Find Happiness

By JEANE HOFMANN

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, March 28—Looking radiantly happy, Nancy Oakes de Marigny was back in New York today, the shadows of the sensational Bahamas murder case far behind her, and a future as plain Mrs. Alfred de Marigny, wife of a Canadian Merchant Service third mate, bright before her.

"I hope to end these absurd divorce rumors," Nancy said. "We couldn't be happier. I am going to Montreal to be as near to him as possible."

The 21-year-old heiress was more at ease than at any time since the murder of her father, Sir Harry Oakes, in 1943, and the subsequent banishment of the count from the Bahamas. She declared:

"I flew up to Montreal last week to join Freddie. It was our first reunion since December, when I left Cuba."

Asked if there was a possibility of the De Marignys going to England, where her brother, 17-year-old Sid Sidney Oakes, is in the British Army, Nancy replied: "When I get entirely well, we may go over. I'd like to serve in the war effort and see my old friends again."

Dressed in a blue tailored wool suit with a short fur jacket, hair grown long, Nancy refused to talk about her mother or her share of the huge fortune, reputedly tied up in litigation.

"I hope we've left the past behind," she sighed. "The divorce rumors—I don't know how they started. I'm going to cooking school to learn to prepare his favorite dishes."

Fair and Warm For Thursday

Temperatures in the 70's just before sunset were forecast for Boston today by the weather bureau, which said the east wind would give way before warmer weather.

A continuance of fair and unseasonably warm weather was predicted for Thursday.

The shift in temperatures followed an early spring electrical storm.

Our German Mayor Slain

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH U. S. FIRST ARMY, March 27 (delayed) (AP)—Franz Oppenhof, 41-year-old burgomeister of Aachen and first mayor appointed by the Allied Military Government in a major German city was assassinated Sunday night, it was announced today.

Oppenhof was shot through the temple as he stood on the back of his home on the outskirts of the city.

Military Intelligence officers investigating the case said the motive had not yet been established, and that it had not yet been established officially whether the mayor was killed by Nazis because he had assumed the post of burgomeister under the Americans. It was possible he may have been the victim of a personal enemy.

This was the story that was given by Oppenhof's neighbor to the army:

Oppenhof and his wife were at a neighbor's home when the burgomeister's maid called and said three men were waiting to see him.

The neighbor accompanied the official to his home. A uniformed trio met the mayor on the back porch and told him they were German air force officers whose plane had crashed. They said they wanted food and shelter, and protection from the Americans.

The mayor was quoted by his neighbor as replying that he would be obliged to turn the group over to American Army authorities.

The neighbor returned to his own home and informed Oppenhof's wife the mayor would be delayed. Shortly afterward, Oppenhof was shot.

A German patrolman, who heard the shot, fired at the three fleeing figures but they escaped, apparently without injury, the Army was told.

Prior to the capture of Aachen last October by the First Army, Oppenhof was an attorney for the archdiocese of the Catholic Church in Aachen and Duesseldorf.

It was known at the time his appointment by the military government was opposed by trade unionists who had suspected him of Nazi sympathies, and the opposition was expressed openly at the first meeting of the trade unions to be held in Aachen—and possibly the first such meeting to be held in Germany—since the Nazis clamped restrictions on unions.

But inasmuch as Oppenhof had chosen to accept the American appointment, many civilian community leaders in Aachen have adopted the view the assassination was the work of Nazis, and that this might have been a Nazi method of intimidating others who might dare to co-operate with the Allies.

Oppenhof's death thus poses a problem for Allied authorities who are seeking community leaders to take over positions previously held by Nazis.

Former Nazis held office under Oppenhof and some of them had been removed at the insistence of the military government. But the men who were removed from one department often turned up as officeholders in another. The unions objected to any former Nazi being permitted to hold office.

Is the slaying of the newly appointed mayor of Aachen a forerunner of the gangsterland chaos that may result when Germany is beaten and the Nazis start their vaunted guerrilla war?

2d Western Front — Russian Sector

By HAL BOYLE

BONN, Germany (AP)—The Russians opened a second Western Front today and bitter street fighting raged back and fourth for half an hour.

It was hand-to-hand combat between four Russian "slave laborers" and three German civilian police. The Soviet forces came out on top with substantial military booty—three bicycles on which they disappeared over the horizon in great haste.

The engagement began when one of the four Russians, looking for an American "displaced persons center," saw three German policemen at an intersection and recognized one as a former overseer in a factory where the Russians had been compelled to work for three years.

It was a golden opportunity—one the Russians had dreamed of—a chance to give his old straw boss a biff on his Teutonic nose.

The Russians made a brief reconnaissance and then deployed in a frontal attack with a right to the kisser. The German staggered back and Stalin's one-man vanguard followed up with a right and a left to the body.

Dazed by the surprise attack, the German bellowed for all available reserves—and his two comrade cops pitched in. All the German forces were committed and the Russian was surrounded.

Then the other three Russians swept in from both sides in a double pincers envelopment. The Bonn street intersection became a minor Stalingrad. Fists flew and the Russians soon saw red—a lovely German red.

Two American military observers stood by, guiding convoys down a road to the Remagen bridgehead. They kept the convoys from running over the battlefield, but made no attempt to break up the fight.

"We were just told to direct traffic here, Mac," they explained to a bystander.

Two photographers—Johnny Florea of Life magazine and Bill Allen of the Associated Press—arrived on the scene and promptly took up forward positions from which they filmed the historic encounter.

Holding onto bicycles with one hand, the Russians dipped into brief cases on the bikes and pulled out potatoes and bottled cherries which they threw at the Germans. The Germans reeled back from the impact of these deadly new weapons and potatoes and cherries rolled through the dusty streets. Bowled over by this final breakthrough the Germans ran toward the nearest cellar.

"They were yelling 'Kamerad' and something about the 'Versaille treaty,'" said Florea.

The Russians speeded the rout by rocketing potato concentrations after them. Then they climbed on the captured bicycles and sped away.

If there is an odd gun in the next victory salute in Moscow it will be to chronicle the first Soviet tactical triumph on the Western Front.

German Press Spreads Gloom

LONDON, March 28 (INS)—Nazi newspapers and broadcasts, underlining Gen. Eisenhower's announcement Germany's western armies were whipped, warned that "the hours of Calvary have struck for the German nation."

Meanwhile the London Daily Mail declared in a Bern dispatch today Hitler's council of war at Berchtesgaden had decided to fight on to the last man.

The leading Nazis called to the emergency meeting were said to have split into two factions.

One favored capitulation. The other demanded the war should be continued at all costs.

The latter group, said the dispatch, apparently won and the conclave ended.

Newspaper gloom comment also varied in Berlin.

"If we cannot stem the onslaught from the west and east with military means, then neither the efforts of individual fighters nor the heroism of the home front will be of any avail," the newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter declared.

The editorial and others in similar vein followed warnings by German military commentators that Lt. Gen. Patton's armored

Berlin Orders Evacuation

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—A fleet of approximately 950 Flying Fortresses, with 350 Mustang fighters in escort, attacked Berlin and Hannover today as a German broadcast said the Reich capital would be evacuated of all unneeded persons.

The German news agency DNB made the announcement that steps would be taken to remove all unessential citizens from the city, which underwent its 36th consecutive RAF Mosquito raid last night.

Armament plants in Berlin and Hannover were the targets for today's raiders.

Spoiled Canada Poultry Hunted

As State agencies, armed with legislative authority to seize poultry anywhere in Massachusetts, moved to smash a poultry "black market" today, Dr. Fred J. Bailey met with city health officials to take action as a result of the seizure of 3500 pounds of unfit Canadian poultry.

TO WED STAR—Kaaren Verne, lovely screen star, is altar wedding today for her coming wedding to Peter Lorre, Hollywood actor, which is scheduled for the near future, according to friends in the film capital.

Public Safety Commr. John F. Stokes received orders from Gov. Tobin today to start seizures, concentrating mostly on poultry shipments in transit, while State Purchasing Agent George J. Cronin was empowered by the Governor to allocate seized supplies to hospitals and institutions which have been unable to obtain minimum requirements.

Twenty OPA agents were assigned to assist troopers in the seizures.

For the present, at least, State police are not expected to seize poultry on farms, as this would endanger the supply of breeding hens.

The meeting of health officials was called by Dr. Bailey after inspectors had condemned a carload of poultry from Canada as unfit for human consumption.

It was disclosed that at least half the carload had been disposed of as refuse, and the remainder was condemned and seized and health officials discussed procedure for reclaiming the missing poultry before it was eaten. Dr. Bailey expressed the opinion at least one-third of the missing poultry was unfit to eat.

Meanwhile, OPA authorities had completed an investigation of "black market" operations in poultry said to involve more than 200 and expected to file the first group of these informations in federal court today.

The investigation was understood to have disclosed that poultry was being sold in these operations at from 5 to 20 cents per pound above ceiling prices.

Boston marketmen generally approved the State seizures, but many expressed doubt whether it would be of benefit to the Easter trade.

During the past week hospitals and State institutions have been unable to obtain any poultry through regular market channels.

State Police, during the few hours it took the measure to go through the formal enactment stages, had been busy on all main highways halting all shipments of poultry under existing law requiring drivers of vehicles transporting fowl to submit to examination and to carry bills of lading and bills of sale with history of the birds.

The rest of the meal can be obtained with equal ease.

The only hitch is you might have trouble getting transportation from Canada to do your shopping, and that's where these rare items are being offered—in Montreal.

The advertisement makes no mention of points, red, white, blue or rainbow-hued.

Thought for the day: Anyone know where a poor Bostonian can buy a chicken for Easter?

Cambridge in Arms Over Historic Stone

All the legalists, maneuverers, legislators and citizens' committees this side of Tophet, to say nothing of all the king's horses, will never wrench from him his bought-and-paid-for Washington Elm marker, City Councilor Michael A. Sullivan of Cambridge was saying today.

Just to make sure he could back it up, Sullivan was poring over the municipal laws, lest there be a loophole in his defense against foes among the citizenry.

Herbert McSorley, prominent Republican, was trying to consolidate opposition strategy, meanwhile, by arranging a meeting of anti-Sullivan forces "within a day or two." He said, "It is a disgrace to the city to have the stone in the hands of a politician."

Politician or not, countered Sullivan, the stone most certainly was in his hands, as was a bill of sale from the city, for the whole magnificent 8600 pounds and inscription: "Under this tree Washington first took command of the American Army—July 3, 1775." And some day it would serve as a marker for his own grave, with suitable additional data on it to make plain who owned it, he said.

McSorley called upon the councilor to be "a public-spirited citizen and return the stone to the city," or permit its purchase. He added the people of Cambridge were "aroused" by disclosure Sullivan had the stone.

Sullivan's rebuttal to that was that apparently no one but himself had been interested in the marker until he retrieved it in 1941 from the city's Raymond st. yards, where it had been thrown among the rubbish and weeds.

The Battle of the Boulder had reached such heights today that Cambridge residents were reported raising funds which they hoped might influence Sullivan's attitude. He was still saying no, however.

Big 4 Packer Says OPA Rules Ruinous

By FRANK B. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, March 28 (INS)—One of the nation's biggest meat packers told Congress today that OPA regulations are driving his company's plants toward government ownership.

"If this goes on for two or three years the government will have to furnish money and operate the plants," Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board of Wilson & Co., told the Senate black market investigating committee.

Wilson, first of the "Big Four" packers to testify, declared that rules and regulations prevent the packing industry from correcting their troubles themselves, asserting "large sections of our business are headed for heavy losses."

"In normal times we could use our own judgment to meet such situations," he said. "Now, we are tied to rules and regulations that keep us from exercising our judgment and doing things we know should be done."

Wilson said he believed he "spoke for the industry" in asserting packers are losing money on beef and hog slaughter.

"We cannot buy livestock at controlled prices and sell meat at controlled prices without losing a lot of money," he declared.

"The more hogs you kill, the more you lose," Wilson was asked. "We can't kill a hog without loss," he replied.

Telling of losses on beef, Wilson declared his company was furnishing the armed services "all the beef we can, regardless of results, and we will continue to do so, so long as we can keep our heads above water."

"But it's getting pretty close to our breathing apparatus."

Relief in recent OPA orders "has taken care of only about half of our losses," Wilson said.

He predicted the packers' difficulties would become much worse "unless some change in regulations were made quickly."

The Big Four packer—whose company operates plants in many American cities and in Argentina and Brazil—joined spokesmen for 700 smaller packing firms in blaming OPA policies for meat troubles.

Canada May Reimpose Meat Rationing

OTTAWA, March 28 (AP)—Canada says she is able to provide more meat for her own city consumers than Americans get because of a more equitable distribution system, but with an eye to promoting Canadian good will in the United States, may reimpose meat rationing, abandoned March 1, 1944, after a nine-month period in which Canadians were limited to two pounds a week, without regard to variety.

Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner said he did not know what Lt. Col. R. W. Olmstead, director of supply for the U. S. Commodity Credit Corp., meant when he told a Senate subcommittee Monday

Plenty of Meat? Just Boloney?

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—There is no shortage of bologna—the kind you eat. Supplies of frankfurters also are adequate.

Otherwise, the Labor Department said today, housewives found it increasingly hard to find meat in independent stores in 56 major cities during mid-February to mid-March.

The survey indicated more butter, sugar and shortening, with canned vegetables plentiful, but canned fruits were scarce.

Forcible was hard to find, 78 per cent of the stores having no loins and ham. About 70 per cent had no bacon or veal. About 50 per cent had some beef, less than in mid-February.

That Canada had refused to export meat to the United States.

In 1942, he said, there developed in Canadian cities a shortage of beef along with heavy shipments of beef cattle to the United States, and Canada closed the American boundary to protect Canadian consumers. Canada was not then selling beef to Great Britain, needing it at home, Gardiner explained, so that heavy shipments of pork products could go to Britain.

Faithful Throng Fills Churches At Solemn Rites

Tenebrae services commemorating the passion of Jesus on the cross will be chanted by a choir of seminarians tonight at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, and will continue for three nights in some of the Catholic churches in the archdiocese.

The significance of this year's Holy Week is so deeply felt that worshippers are thronging Protestant churches in the city to such an extent that at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul it has been necessary to install extra seats.

Today commemorates the day Jesus spent quietly in Bethany. At noon, Very Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, dean of the Cathedral Church was to give the third of his talks on contrasts in the Passion story. He will conclude the series tomorrow.

Tonight at 8, the Dudley Street Baptist Church will conduct a special evangelistic and covenant service, preceded by the final Fellowship support of Lent.

On Good Friday, the discourses for the Three Hours Agony at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave., will be given by Rev. Edward L. Murphy, S. J., of Weston College. At the Tenebrae service, the sermon will be by Rev. Edward V. Winsper, S. J.

On Holy Saturday, there will be the blessing of the new fire of the Paschal Candle in all Catholic churches, with solemn high mass and Holy Communion. Lent will end on noon.

Cops Battle R. I. Jewelry Gang

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 28 (INS)—After five shots had been fired by police today at four men fleeing from a manufacturing jewelry plant one man was captured, but the others escaped with $500 in loot.

The robbery was one of a series in the Providence Jewelry manufacturing area during the past year, netting $125,000.

The yeggs broke into the Sun Co. factory on Clifford st. and took $1000 in cash and $4000 in silver bars from the safe.

Night Watchman John H. Hudson heard voices and called police. Patrolman B. J. Conaty fired five shots, but missed.

The captured man was held on a technical charge.

60 Airfields for Boston Seen Postwar Necessity

Warning that Greater Boston was ignoring the fact it would be able to use 60 aviation landing fields within 10 years after the war was given today to the Aeronautics Ass'n of Boston at a Parker House luncheon by William A. Burden, assistant Secretary of Commerce.

"Nobody would suggest building 60 airports in and around Boston during the next year," he said. "But, if you're going to make even a modest start on the job today, you must take into consideration tomorrow's requirements."

"Unfortunately, there doesn't seem to be any planning under way in the Boston area even for six airports, much less for sixty."

Burden had pointed out that in Boston alone, by 1955, there conceivably would be at least 6000 private and commercially owned planes and that this would mean up to 60 landing areas would be needed in the area.

"Boston can become a great terminal for domestic and possibly international air service," he declared. "But, according to our records, there is not one small private flying field within a reasonable distance of your great metropolis."

"This is an amazing situation when you consider the substantial amount of personal flying even the most conservative estimates indicate will develop in a city of this size after the war."

"As alternate fields to your Logan airport, there are now only the Bedford field and a small airport at Norwood."

"The Bedford field now is being used by the Army, but is listed for improvements when it reverts to civilian use."

"For the field at Norwood we propose $770,000 in improvement work under the national airport plan."

"But you must have more than that if you are considering tomorrow's requirements in your plans of today."

Hub Brothers Held In Extortion Attempt

Two Boston brothers, charged with attempted extortion from a Fryeburg, Me., minister, pleaded not guilty today in federal court and U. S. Commr. William C. Rogers ordered them held for the grand jury in bonds of $2500 each.

Ed Flynn, Taylor Again See Pope

VATICAN CITY, March 28 (INS)—Pope Pius XII today granted a 40-minute audience to Edward J. Flynn and Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal emissary to the Vatican. Flynn has been reported attempting to achieve a reconciliation between the Vatican and Moscow.

Quin Girls Born to Wife Of $1320 U. S. Clerk; All Die

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Quintuplet girls were born to a 36-year-old Negro woman last night, but by 6 a. m. today all had died.

The mother is Mrs. Ada H. Turner, whose husband, Harold, is a $1320-a-year receiving clerk at the government Bureau of Standards. Mrs. Turner is the mother of eight other children, the youngest 10 months old.

Two and one-half months premature, all but one of the quintuplets were born alive. The attending physician said that except for the stillborn baby, all were fully developed and weighed from one to one and one-half pounds each. The five were delivered within 17 minutes, beginning at 10:40 p. m.

At Freedmen's Hospital, where the babies were born, Dr. A. P. Allen said that pre-natal examination of Mrs. Turner had indicated the likelihood of multiple birth, but only twins had been expected.

Mrs. Turner walked to the hospital last night. Her husband went to bed and was awakened at 2 a. m. by a newspaper reporter who gave him first news of the quintuplets.

Later Turner said, "I was shocked."

Two of the eight Turner children are twins.

MRS. MILDRED PETERS
"Expectant Mother" Vanishes

Wife, Cash Gone; Probe Baby Story

NEWPORT, Ky., March 28 (AP)—Money and bonds also are missing with Mrs. Mildred Peters, 33-year-old, 200-pound brunette, who, her husband says, disappeared two days ago as she prepared to have a baby.

Mrs. Peters left home Monday, husband Carl told police, in a taxi headed for Booth Hospital, where she said she had a room reserved for her.

She carried $200 to $300 in savings and $200 in War Bonds, and a small suitcase containing things that expectant mothers take to hospitals, Peters said.

At the hospital Maj. Alvina Wood, superintendent, said there was no record of a reservation for Mrs. Peters.

Henry Schweinzer, the cab driver, said he drove the woman to the hospital and last saw her walking toward a rear entrance.

400,000 Miners Ballot on Strike

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Four hundred thousand soft coal miners across the nation ballot today on whether to strike for John L. Lewis' contract demands, including a $60,000,000-a-year union royalty.

As the miners voted, on their own time, at mines or other central places, the government sought to avert a mine shutdown by speeding up a new contract before Saturday midnight, the expiration hour, or by extending the present agreement until May 1.

The strike vote was on this question: "Do you wish to permit an interruption of war production in wartime as a result of this dispute?"

Tabulation, expected to be overwhelmingly in favor of striking, probably will be completed by tomorrow morning.

6 Executives Held As Draft Dodgers

NEW YORK, March 28 (INS)

Six high-paid executives were arrested by FBI agents on charges of conspiracy to violate the draft act, growing out of alleged attempts by five of the men to escape military service by taking part-time jobs in a war plant while holding their regular non-essential jobs.

The sixth was personnel manager of the plant in which the others obtained employment for a few hours a day in the fall and winter of 1943-44 following increase of speculative rumors on "work or fight" legislation, special FBI Agent E. E. Conroy said.

Conroy listed the defendants as Irving Weintraub, 36, Harry H. Herman, 30, Leslie M. Wain, 31, David H. Siebeck, 37, Meyer Weiss, 35, and Irven J. Tolk, 36.

Hearst Newspapers Praised

The Boston School Committee today forwarded to William Randolph Hearst and to Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C., copies of resolutions it adopted praising the Massachusetts Youth Committee, the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser and Mr. Hearst for their national youth guidance campaign to combat juvenile delinquency.

The resolutions, introduced by Chairman Michael J. Ward, were signed by him and all other members—Dr. Patrick J. Foley, Daniel J. McDevitt, Clement A. Norton and Joseph C. White. The resolutions read:

WHEREAS, Miss Katharine F. Lenroot, chief of the United States Children's Bureau in Washington, has reported that during the year 1944, juvenile delinquency has been reduced 28 per cent in the City of Boston, and

WHEREAS, This is the second largest reduction in the entire country, and

WHEREAS, The Massachusetts Youth Committee, organized Oct. 14, 1943, and sponsored by the Boston Daily Record, Boston American and Sunday Advertiser, is part of a national campaign for youth guidance inaugurated by William Randolph Hearst to combat juvenile delinquency, and

WHEREAS, The Boston School Committee, realizing the need of such organized action, and eager to do its share in solving this important national social problem, enthusiastically co-operated with the Massachusetts Youth Committee and the Hearst newspapers in establishing and operating 14 night youth recreation centers in public school buildings throughout the city, and

WHEREAS, Our MYC youth guidance program has already resulted in an enrollment of more than 12,000 teen-age boys and girls, and

WHEREAS, Other cities and organizations throughout the country have adopted the plan of the Massachusetts Youth Committee, and

WHEREAS, The Boston School Committee feels that its efforts have been more than justified in the accomplishments of the last 16 months, and

WHEREAS, The Boston School Committee realizes that this splendid achievement is only the beginning of the attack against this sinister and deep-rooted problem and that there still remains much further work to be done, be it.

RESOLVED, That we, the members of the School Committee of the City of Boston, extend to William Randolph Hearst, his Boston newspapers and his other publications throughout the country, our deep appreciation and gratitude for his initiative, vision and great interest in the welfare of American youth, and be it further RESOLVED, That we, the guardians of youth education in Boston, herewith express our profound thanks to the Massachusetts Youth Committee and its Public Relations Officer, Mr. Bert Ford, for their zealous and untiring efforts in promoting and publicizing the activities of this constructive youth guidance program.

Jewish Families Plan Seder Rites

Commemorating deliverance of their ancestors from bondage in Egypt more than 3100 years ago, Jews throughout the world will gather at seder services around family tables tonight to begin the traditional eight-day observance of the Passover.

Many families in the Greater Boston area are planning special seder services for Jewish servicemen. Throughout the Passover celebration, Matzo, symbolic of the haste with which the Israelites fled, are eaten.

Jewish servicemen will observe the feast all over the world. Through co-operation with the National Jewish Welfare Board, Jewish chaplains carried Matzo, ceremonial wine and haggadahs to two Jima.

The holiday will be marked in Germany for the first time since 1933, and for servicemen in Germany, Belgium and France, the JWB sent thousands of food packages in addition to wine.

In Boston, soldiers wishing to attend a seder with a family are urged to telephone Commonwealth 6620, and ask for Home Hospitality at the USO-JWB Club, 17 Commonwealth.

Special restaurant facilities have been set up for sederim at 9½ Harrison ave. by the Associated Synagogues of Boston, and at 30 Stuart st. by the Young Israel Council of New England.

A complete seder ceremony will be conducted at Cushing General Hospital, and community seders are being planned at several temples.

Two servicemen who had lost their wallets in Boston today praised the honesty of local residents.

Mrs. Jean Camell of Columbus ave., South End, found a wallet containing $100 in a taxi which she took to downtown Boston. It was found to be the property of Harold Brettis of Ft. Devens and was returned to him through the military police. John J. Donahue of Glendale ave., Allston, found and returned the wallet of S. Ze Fred Boomany of San Francisco, which contained $9 in cash.

Racial Equality Row Grows in San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., March 28 (AP)—Tension mounted in San Quentin prison today, with 750 convicts caged in solitary confinement and eating one meal a day because of their rebellion against lifting of racial barriers at the institution.

Warden Clinton Duffy had to send 100 more inmates to their cells at the night meal. They refused to go to the messhall where 477 Negroes were being served.

Would Probe Vet Medical Care

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—Declaring medical care for veterans appears "especially poor" compared with that in the armed forces, the journal of the American Medical Ass'n today suggested an independent investigation by a committee reporting directly to President Roosevelt.

"A continuous flow of charges comes from a variety of investigators, commentators, periodicals and publications whose observations have led them to believe medical care in the Veterans' Administration is on a standard far lower than that prevailing in ordinary practice," said an editorial.

"The deteriorated service seems especially poor when contrasted with the high quality of medical care rendered to those in the armed forces."

"There is hardly any German left on whom the visitations of fate have not descended," said Guido von Mandowen, chief of the Nazi sports organization.

"Of our material possessions little is left to us, and what is left may tomorrow be reduced to rubble and ashes."

According to Swiss reports, an emergency meeting was called at Berchtesgaden after Field Marshal Kesselring told Hitler he could no longer accept the responsibility of the Western Front command.

(That the high command feared for the morale of its troops was indicated by a broadcast advising soldiers to beat up doubters and rumor-mongers. They were told to "kick rumor-mongers good and hard, kick their bottoms until they stop telling idle gossip.")

British Hopes High For Quick Victory

LONDON, March 28 (INS)—Prime Minister Churchill was understood to have told his war cabinet that the end of the war in Europe is in sight.

All members of the cabinet were remaining within easy distance of Downing Street.

Meanwhile, great excitement swept all British service departments and Whitehall as news of the incredible Allied advances arrived continually from the Western Front.

The news blackout on the deepest penetrations into Germany was regarded as the most significant pointer to the disasters overtaking the Wehrmacht.

Nuernberg Evacuation Ordered by Himmler

STOCKHOLM, March 28 (AP)—The Free German Press Agency, whose sources of information are not announced, said today Heinrich Himmler had ordered evacuation of Nuernberg and requisitioned vehicles to move party archives from Nazi congress halls there to Berchtesgaden.

The Stockholm Tidningen reported in an unattributed dispatch that organized demonstrations had broken out in Vienna and Steiermark Province (Styria) against Nazi centers and party functionaries.

Nazi Women Want Hitler To Die 'Martyr of U. S. Hate'

By RHONA CHURCHILL

WITH U. S. ARMY IN GERMANY (INS)—The majority of German women with whom I have talked hope Hitler will be driven to suicide by the defeats being suffered by his armies.

But they do not wish this because they hate Hitler or because they hate the Nazis.

Once Hitler is dead he will become a martyr, and the Germans will hate us for bringing about his "untimely" end.

These women still think Hitler is a leader sent by God. They worship "Hitler's ideals." They realize something has gone wrong with his plans, but they don't know exactly what it is. But whatever it is, it is not the fault of the Fuehrer.

Many tell us they hate the Nazis. But behind our backs they talk quite differently.

They don't hate the Nazis—they hate the Allied 1000-bomber raids which have completely broken the spirit of German civilians.

"Ask any German in Cologne or Muenchen-Gladbach why he remained behind when the Nazis and soldiers fled, and he'll tell you: 'I have had enough of your terror bombing. Why should I move east and ask for more?'"

The German morale has sunk to a low which in almost any other nation would mean riots and street fighting. A nation less ruthlessly controlled would now rise up and overthrow its leaders. But these people will not do that. They have no leader and they are faced with the the Rhine at a new point south of Boppard.

The Seventh Army's 15th Corps made another clean breakaway from its Rhine bridgehead north of Worms and cut through the Main river.

Both the First and Third Armies operated under security blackouts.

A partial lifting of this blackout on Third Army movements disclosed that 10,251 Germans had been captured east of the Rhine in a week, 4312 of them yesterday. Enormous stores of booty were being taken. For instance, the Sixth Armored Division seized 400 boxcars filled with German equipment near Frankfurt yesterday. The enemy generally was retreating eastward and northeastward in the Berlin direction before Lt. Gen. Patton's forces.

The American Ninth Army captured the large Ruhr town of Holten and its Ruhrchemie synthetic oil plant. It took Wehofen, northern suburb of Duisburg, and was described in a front dispatch as beginning the "dirty job of cleaning up the Ruhr valley, Hitler's past experience of the ruthless crushing of individual revolt; the shooting of a mayor because he hauled down the swastika and put a white flag before the last Nazi was out of town; the shooting of another city official who refused to wreck the town's power plant.

It is generally believed only about 25 per cent of the Nazi party wants to continue the struggle, but this 25 per cent wields the necessary power.

Mrs. Herbert J. Motley

and Mrs. Adams of Commonwealth ave., and several other members of the Morgan family have come to Boston for their mates.

The wedding took place at noon in the First Church of Chestnut Hill with the Rev. John Crocker, headmaster of Groton School, and the Rev. Kenneth Gossner, rector of the Church, officiating. Due to the fact that the bridegroom is on brief leave from sea duty the wedding was hurriedly planned by phone and attended only by members of the immediate families. A small reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Little.

Fanny was attended by her sister, Mrs. Herbert Jaques Motley, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were her cousin, Polly Wheeler of Bedford, N. H., and Mary E. Lowell of Westwood, Conn. Morgan was best man for his son.

The bride graduated from Winsor School in '43, made her debut the following winter and belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club. Ensign Morgan graduated from Groton, is a member of the class of '46 at Harvard where he received his commission from Naval ROTC last October. His clubs include Hasty Pudding-Institute of 1770, D. K. E. and Delphi.

House to Hear Sister Kenny

WASHINGTON, March 28 (INS)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny was expected to come to Washington April 10 to aid in a House investigation of alleged "intimidation practiced upon her by the medical profession."

This development followed a request by Rep. O'Toole (D.) of New York, that President Roosevelt restrain Sister Kenny from leaving the United States.

O'Toole wrote the Chief Executive that he felt "a word from you would give new faith and new hope to Sister Kenny and would insure her remaining in this country to continue her splendid work."

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 28—Never say that Republic is a piker when it comes to spending money these days. Zip go the strings of the studio pocketbook for

Frank Borzage's first movie. They're planking out $100,000 for "Concerto," a dramatic original by Borden Chase—and that's plenty of tinkling tunes on anybody's cash register.

If you want to figure it out by comparisons, it's $50,000 more than Margaret Mitchell got for her "Gone With the Wind."

Republic, in the past, has never before been able to get Technicolor, so they are proudly heralding that Borzage's "Concerto" will be filmed in Technicolor. With this budget already tagged to the picture, you can bet there will be a top cast on hand when Frank starts the film in July.

BETTY HUTTON was fairly singing with joy when I talked with her today. Paramount had told her that she is a strong contender for the role of Mrs. Jessie Fremont in "Immortal Wife." Betty said, "I've wanted to do a real dramatic role for so long—and if this is it, I will be the happiest girl in town." Another little item running up her blood pressure was a cable she had just received from Rio de Janeiro asking her to name her own price for a singing engagement at the Copacabana there. She is terribly popular in Rio, where all her pictures have played again and again. The studio has promised she can accept after she finishes "Stork Club", as a sort of good-will gesture to our South American neighbor.

LATEST FLASH on Constance Talmadge, from Havana, is that she must remain in the hospital another two weeks at least to make sure that no infection sets in following the operation on her leg. What a lot of bad luck Connie has had! She was just getting back her health after nearly dying from uræmic poisoning and went with her husband to Cuba to recuperate. She and Walter were in swimming when a baby swordfish rammed her leg. Connie is one swell girl who doesn't deserve all this trouble.

MARK SANDRICH had every detail of "Blue Skies" at his fingertips and only he knew the ideas and plans he had for Bing Crosby's next picture. But the show must always go on—and so Paramount, after spending a fortune in advance on this musical, has now contacted Irving Berlin to come to Hollywood and take over. Irving, who wrote the music and who had worked closely with Mark, is the logical man to succeed him in the production spot.

B. S. PULLY, 20th comedian with the raucous voice, told me that his father goes to see his movies and stays all day. He arrives when the theater opens and is the last one out with the exception of the janitor. "In one picture," said Pully, "most of my scenes were cut but the old man kept staying on thinking there would be more of me the next time the picture ran." Well, his father should be happy when he sees "Kitten on the Hot" Pully gets the comedy lead in the George Jessel film.

He goes into the hospital any minute now for an operation; the Bob Considine said farewell to their Hollywood friends at a cocktail party at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Ted Lawson, who is now out of uniform, was there. It was an interesting gathering. Phyllis Thaxter, who was Mrs. Lawson in "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," came with her husband, Capt. James Aubrey, Jr. Van Johnson, who played Lawson in the same film, was also on hand. My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, TUESDAY—I saw a bluebird and a robin yesterday! It is not as warm here and spring is not as far along as in Washington. Still, the feel of it is in the air and there is a fresh, green look about the shoots poking their heads above ground which makes you want to settle down in the country and have nothing whatsoever to do with bricks and mortar for a long while.

But bricks and mortar exist and engagements go on, and people concentrate in big cities, so here I am in New York, where at 1 o'clock I go to the Cosmopolitan Club to speak at one of their membership lunches.

At 3:30 I GO ON to Carnegie Hall to celebrate the awarding of the Army-Navy E to theighthouse worship of the blind, and at 4:30 I attend a meeting of the sponsoring committee preparing for the African dance festival on April 4 at Carnegie Hall.

At 7 o'clock I attend a dinner at the Commodore Hotel given by the New York section of the National Council of Jewish Women, when "Council House," a settlement house built in 1929 by the Council of Jewish Women for an underprivileged Jewish group, is being presented to an equally underprivileged Negro community now settled in this area.

Midnight will see me back on the train to Washington and I think I shall sleep well, since the day looks somewhat busy!

I READ WITH INTEREST this morning's column by Walter Lippmann on the San Francisco conference, and I feel that his remarks are justified if there is the faintest idea of actually writing a charter to cover the future peace of the world.

If the aim and object of the delegates, however, is to agree on some kind of world organization which will then, at some future time, proceed to meet and slowly and painstakingly evolve a charter covering the first points which present themselves as important to us all, then we should have hopes of success.

A body of international law can only be built up over the years, it seems to me, and it would be impossible at any one time to cover in any charter the various situations which will necessitate changes to meet now and specific conditions at different times.

The main objective, from my point of view, is to have a place where anything which troubles the world can be brought out and aired. It will be known by all whenever anyone is foolishly enough to want to go to war; and their impulses in that direction can be controlled, not by one or two persons, but by the united public opinion of the whole group of nations.

THE QUESTION OF "PHYLLIS" wrinkles comes under microscopic inspection and discussion today . . . those fine lines and wrinkles which have this 24-year-old war worker so terribly worried . . . because they make her look so much older than her tender years. And, what will that boy friend say when he sees her . . . that boy friend who is coming home after a three years' absence at the fighting front?

Like all other women with sentiment and romance in their hearts . . . Phyllis is waiting for that moment of moments when the Big Moment whispers. "The night is young and you're so beautiful . . ." But working in a war plant . . . giving her all to the war effort to hasten the home-coming of the boy friend . . . Phyllis has neglected the beauty care of her face, neck and hands. And, suddenly she wants the one thing every girl craves . . . facial loveliness for dreams that "get better all the time."

It is no joy to be saddled with a face like an etching . . . a mass of fine lines and wrinkles reminiscent of a delectable fruit . . . and powerful in its devastating effect on the illusion of the most costly getup. Clothes this season are remembering Mama as well as her daughter . . . but are both Mama and daughter remembering themselves in the new pursuit after the youthful, vibrant, charming look so vital these days? Phyllis has suddenly remembered. Fine lines . . . you see . . . are no respecter of age.

Here is a treatment for those fine lines and wrinkles that is one of the best we know. Of course, it doesn't work miracles overnight . . . beauty isn't achieved that way . . . but it does soften those grooves and in time makes them negligible and practically invisible. Its creator is a pioneer in the business of beauty.

This is a bedtime treatment. After thoroughly . . . and I do mean thoroughly . . . cleansing the skin . . . spread this rich, rich cream over the lines and wrinkles wherever they appear . . . although being careful not to get it too close to the eyes. Wrinkles usually dig themselves in around the eyes . . . forehead . . . and around the expression lines of the mouth.

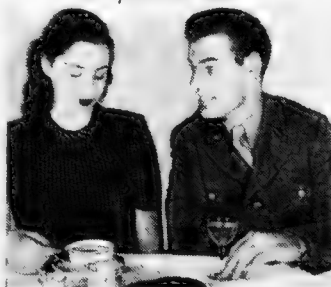

Put this unusually powerful and highly concentrated cream gently . . . and smooth upward and downward for a few moments . . . and then retire.

Tomorrow, we'll take up the question of Phyllis' hands.

For the name of this rich, rich cream to smooth out fine lines, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TOO QUIET? It's not necessary to chatter continuously but the girl who answers in monosyllables, who doesn't try to keep up a conversation, shows that she lacks social poise.

THE FACE can't rough it . . . and must be treated like a bit of silk and not hardy cotton . . . as "Phyllis," the 24-year-old war worker now knows . . . to her sad awakening. With the boy friend she hasn't seen for three years coming home . . . she suddenly wants to be lovely to look at, delightful to see . . . as radiantly lovely as Warner Starlet Jean Sullivan . . . with a face free from lines and wrinkles . . . and a complexion as smooth as silk.

Bolero Jacket-Tunic Skirt

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ADELE SIMPSON has found a way of putting tunics onto suits and this is news. Her suits with tunic skirts have bolero jackets so that the tunic gets all the spotlight it deserves, being in plain view every minute it is worn. The effect you can see in our sketch.

This is one of Adele Simpson's tunic and bolero jacket suits. The jacket is very small with rounded closing and is made of vivid red wool. The skirt with its rather long draped tunic top is made of navy wool and the simple blouse is white crepe with crystal buttons down the front.

This gives the famous Americana color combination that this designer likes so well.

Muffins, Please!

By MARTHA LEE

ONCE WE BEGIN working in the garden or enjoying ourselves out-doors we'll realize how little time will be spent inside. Still, the family has to have meals that are tempting and delicious. And hot muffins give any meal a special touch.

Muffins truly deserve the name of "quick bread," for they are the easiest of all quick breads to make. Sift dry ingredients together into a mixing bowl, make a well in the center and add the mixture of egg, milk and melted shortening. Stir just until mixed. Drop in muffin tins, bake and there you are.

FOR VARIETY

At least ten different kinds of muffins can emerge from a basic muffin recipe. Dress them up right in the mixing process or just before popping them into the oven. For instance, after the batter is in the muffin tins, brush tops with egg white and sprinkle with granulated sugar for a sugar-frost muffin. Or sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar for a crusty top. Speaking of toppings, one more trick is to add a teaspoon of jelly or jam to each muffin before baking.

For surprise muffins place a cooked apricot or prune in the bottom of the tin. Pour the batter in on top and bake. Or stir 1/4 to 1/2 cup chopped fruit into the batter while mixing. Peanut butter muffins are fun. Put half of the batter in muffin tins. Drop 1 teaspoon peanut butter in each and add rest of batter. Breakfast muffins made by adding slices of cooked diced bacon to the batter go with scrambled eggs.

PLAIN MUFFINS

2 cups flour 1/4 tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
2 tsp. sugar 1 cup milk
1 beaten egg
3 tsp. melted shortening
Sift flour with salt, baking powder and sugar. Mix milk, egg and shortening and add all at once to dry ingredients. Stir just until dry ingredients are moistened, but not smooth. Fill lightly greased muffin tins 2-3 full and bake at 400 deg. F. for 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

CORN MEAL MUFFINS

1-3 cup drippings (solidified)
1-3 cup sugar 1 beaten egg
1 1/2 cups milk 1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 cup corn meal 1/2 tsp. salt
Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and milk. Add flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Add corn meal, stirring only enough to mix. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full; bake at 425 deg. F. 25 minutes. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

SOUTHERN MUFFINS

1 cup prepared pancake flour
1/2 cup corn meal
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 tsp. salt 1 egg, beaten
1 cup sour light cream
Mix together pancake flour, corn meal, soda and salt; stir in nuts. Combine egg and sour cream; add to first mixture, stirring until well mixed. Use tablespoon to dip batter into greased muffin pans and fill them 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 15 minutes. Makes 8 medium-sized muffins.

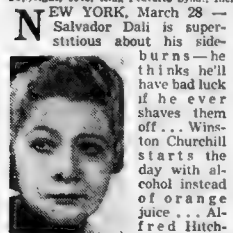

GINGER CHEESE MUFFINS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. ginger
2-3 cup grated American cheese
1 egg, beaten 1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup molasses
1/4 cup shortening, melted
Mix and sift dry ingredients; stir in grated cheese. Combine egg, milk, molasses and shortening; add to flour mixture, stirring only until mixed. Use tablespoon to dip batter into greased muffin pans and fill them 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 20 to 30 minutes.

SPEAKING of betting, I have bet practically all my life. I will continue to bet until I die. In fact, you might say I will be betting after death, as a wise guy recently laid me $1000 to $10 that I will not return from that bourne that is popularly supposed to permanently detain all travelers.

"Most persons will no doubt say that I have had bad bet. I think I have a good one. In any event, could I resist the price?"

It all started at a sidewalk session at Broadway and Fiftieth when the name of a departed broker came up and someone recalled that he had promised to return after death and visit his old friends.

"So will I," I remarked, sociably.

"You will?" said the wise guy, emphasizing the "you" as much as to say that no matter who might return I am least likely to enjoy that privilege.

"Yes, I will," I said, stiffly.

"I would like to lay you ten thousand to a nickel that you don't," said the wise guy.

AT THOSE WORDS, everyone present turned around and scrutinized all persons nearby lest some of them be bulls. Along Broadway these days a citizen dast not even think of betting. It is rumored that Mayor LaGuardia has plainclothesmen on duty who are mind readers.

"You have a wager," I said to the wise guy after noting that the coast was clear. He quickly reconsidered.

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: READY for the mails under the OPA frank are 200,000 forms destined for New England delivery and designed to be that bureau's first official move to place a firm ceiling on so-called vacation property . . .

Owners of cottages along the northeastern shore, as well as those who own dwellings in inland summer resorts, will be required to fill out these forms, and to abide later by such ceilings as the OPA establishes. Reports of huge rentals being asked and obtained for summer homes, coupled with complaints of prospective vacationers who found summer cottages beyond even the reach of their wartime budgets, prompted the action.

ALSO EXCLUSIVE: The deal has been closed and the papers passed whereby James (Jimmy) O'Keefe, Boston's widely-known restaurateur, and one or two associates have taken over the operation of the famous Copley Square Hotel . . . Under the O'Keefe regime, the Copley Square probably again will become the home headquarters of the Boston Red Sox—as it was for so many years . . . Mr. O'Keefe's close friend is Manager Joe Cronin and Jimmy's acquaintanceship is undoubtedly the largest by a Bostonian with players of visiting teams in both major leagues.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN'S lovely wife—who seldom attends a pre-Broadway premiere of her famous husband's operas—was present at the Boston debut of "Carousel" . . . Between the acts, Mr. Hammerstein gave an informative explanation for the seeming miracle of unearthing one new musical comedy player after another with starring potentialities . . . "Oklahoma," which he wrote to Richard Rodgers' music, revealed such bright new stars as Alfred Drake and Jean Roberts . . . In "Carousel" Messrs. Hammerstein and Rodgers reveal three or four new finds (John Raitt, Jan Clayton, Jean Darling and Eric Mattison, to name four sure-shots).

IT SEEMS that Oscar and Dick have been holding regular Thursday afternoon auditions each and every week since their sensational "Oklahoma" cemented their collaboration as one of the great teams of the theater two seasons ago . . . Kids with talent travel from all parts of the country to get a hearing, and both Mr. Hammerstein and Mr. Rodgers unfailingly preside at the auditions.

CHATTER: Mrs. Diana Bird (Perry), the Boston society girl, is inspiring this column to venture on one of its infrequent forays on the domes of what Dorothy Kilgallen calls Sir Stork . . . But that Diana has a date with the bird with the long bill this August will be startling news to a host of Boston well-wishers . . . Eleanor "Miss" Frelengham, acquired by a young lieutenant, was the prettiest of the post-deb crop to turn out for "Carousel's" premiere . . . But Eleanor left after Act . . . Her brother Teddy, incidentally, has worked himself up to staff sergeant in the European theater of operations . . . Ted had the qualifications for officer candidate school, but preferred to enlist as a buck private . . . Peggy Doyle is telephoning you about a rouse! on another page, but for an example of Librettist Hammerstein's sense of wry humor at the very best, your attention is called by this department to the "love scene between Jigger" (Eric Mattison) and "Carrie" (Jean Darling) near the beginning of Act 2 . . . Under more playing, it will be—and should be—a cameo classic . . . It occurred to your reporter while viewing the new Hammerstein-Rodgers-Theater Guild musical that it is time for someone in the theater, or in the movies, to make a hero out of a solid business man and good citizen and proper families . . . The rakish, raffish, devil-may-care type has been due to death . . . The sound citizen and consistent taxpayer is certainly due for a break from some quarter . . . even if he hasn't the soul or the morals of an "artist."

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.

Hing Crosby has won more awards than any other performer, what with getting prizes in both the motion picture and radio divisions, and now he has the crowning achievement—the Academy's Oscar.

He had his best season in the movies and on the radio, when he had his toughest competition—Frank Sinatra. He's a smart showman. He embraced Frankie boy. He started a trend in show business by becoming genuinely friendly with the competition instead of, as in the old days, becoming a bitter rival. And he accepted the situation with humor.

He was born in Tacoma, Wash., on May 2, 1901. He was a short and chunky kid and he loved to sing. He always appealed to the gals.

He went to Gonzaga University to study law. While attending college a group of fellows formed a band. He joined, and bought drums. He said, "Now I'll have to learn how to play the drums." He still says it. It was only after he made good as a singer that Gonzaga gave him a degree, honorary.

Bing is married to Dixie Lee, and they have four sons, Gary Evans, Phillip Land, Dennis Michael, and Lindsay Harry.

'Carousel' Brilliant Musical

By PEGGY DOYLE

In "Carousel," which opened last night at the Colonial Theatre, The Theatre Guild has another sweetheart of a musical from the Big Five responsible for the enduring smash-hit, "Oklahoma!"

Based on Ferenc Molnar's unforgettable stage classic, "Lilom," the new musical, switching its locale from Budapest to New England, retains in essence the tender, tragic love-story of Julie and the handsome young vagabond who tends the carousel in a small amusement park.

"Carousel" is at once as madly merry as the gaily painted joyride which gives it its name and as inescapably tragic as the now tawdry merry-go-round when the little amusement park's lights are dimmed and the crowds have deserted it. It is as volatile and charming and thoughtful as its dark-starred hero.

No more enchanting first-scene has graced the local season than the vividly colorful amusement park revealed by the rising opening-curtain. Flocking 'round the rapidly turning carousel are fresh young girls and good-looking lads astride its gaudily painted steeds, all quaintly garbed in the bright fashions of the '70s.

The carousel-lad's reluctant wooing of the tenderly, bemused Julie has the sincerity and simplicity of the famous "Our Town" love scene. These two are played by youthful John Raitt, the Curly of the touring "Oklahoma," and Jan Clayton, 18-year-old Hollywood starlet, with a persuasiveness and sympathy that suggests years of experience. Raitt's powerful baritone has an operatic quality and his personality a wide-open-spaces range that mate perfectly for his present assignment.

Jean Darling's best friend of Julie's, Carrie Pippenger, is a provocative little pigeon whom you may remember from the old "Our Gang" comedy days. When she sings "When I Marry Mister Snow," she proves her comedienne attributes by walking away with the scene. She and Miss Clayton do nice things with "You're a Queer One, Julie Jordan." Eric Mattison's Mister Snow is a genuinely comic without being a caricature character.

Jean Castle's Mrs. Mullin, who operates the carousel, is a sharp blend of jealousy, passion and backfensive vocalists. Christine Johnson's forthright, lusty Nettie Fowler is something that should increase her pride of performance.

And right up there with the stars belongs 16-year-old Bambi Linn, playing the 16-year-old daughter of the romantic carousel-tender so beautifully right that your heart keeps climbing up your throat.

Like the "Oklahoma" score, the Richard Rodgers-Oscar Hammerstein, 2d, music is in the mood and tense of "Carousel" to an inspired degree.

"June Is Bustin' Out All Over" parallels "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning" for zing and zest and all-around hitting-you-here-you-live appeal. Something out of something you probably never heard in a Broadway musical is the carousel-lad's song about his unborn baby, titled "Soliloquy." American in its quality are "Thus, Was a Real Nice Clam Bake" and "There's Nothin' So Bad For a Woman (as a Good Man)". As forlorn as a hillbilly's lament is Mr. Snow's (Eric Mattison) morose "Geraniums in the Window."

As delightful as it is distinguished, the "Carousel" including the lovely "If I Loved You" Julie-Billy duet, is a spring tonic for your ears.

Agnes de Mille, who designed the dances for "Oklahoma!", has created the dances for the newest Guild musical... and it is good! Her dance designs have humor and beauty and great vitality. Of course, Rouven Mamoulian's overall direction is expert, as always, and it is to marvel at his skill in keeping his production cohesive and tight in the face of so much detail.

"Hotel Berlin," Warner's headlong melodrama of Nazis vice suggested by the Vicki Baum novel, is remaining a second week on Paramount and Fenway screens. The main thread of the story, which branches off into a myriad of minor plots, is concerned with a fugitive hiding in the hotel and desperately seeking egress. Helmut Dantine plays the fugitive most successfully. Others importantly cast are Raymond Massey, Andrea King, Faye Emerson, Peter Lorre, Alan Hale, George Coulouris and Steven Geray. Peter Godfrey directed with exceptional skill.

I'M CONVINCED THAT THE MASKED HERO OF THE OOLAN, WHO FOUGHT THE JAPS IN BENGALI A YEAR AGO, WAS THE PHANTOM!

THAT WAS OVER A YEAR AGO. THE MASKED HERO, DISAPPEARED. BUT I'M SURE HE SAW DIANA PALMER.

NOW, IF I CAN FIND HER, I'LL FIND HIM—AND A MILLION DOLLARS FOR MY FAVORITE CHARITY—WHICH IS ME.

Earley May Bare Future Of Ex-Service Athletes

By HUCK FINNEGAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28—Can big league ball players come back with their pre-war effectiveness after a lengthy layoff? People are talking about Hugh Mulcahy, Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky and other youngsters who entered the armed forces some two or three years back.

Half the answer may have been provided Sunday when Jimmy Wallace, 17 months in the Army, handcuffed the Senators for two innings. And if two innings were not a fair test, Jimmy was to take the mound against the Senators again today here at Georgetown U.

The other answer may (or will) be provided when Tom Earley of Roxbury makes his first post-discard start.

"He's not ready yet," said Manager Bob Coleman after warming up the Mission Hill lad. And the Mission Hill lad isn't ready. Instead of the free-wheeling operative who curve-balled the Dodgers and Cards to death in '41, Earley is "putting the shot" with the ball in practice. His arm is tightened so much he seems muscle-bound.

I PITCHED some in Norfolk, Va., in '43," said Earley, hard to account for the hitch in his shoulder, "but I didn't toss a ball all the time I was in Australia."

Tom enlisted in the Navy after the '42 baseball season. In '43 he played with Dom DiMaggio, Charlie Wagner, Scooter Rizzuto, Don Padgett, etc., at Norfolk, Va. Midway through the season he was on his way to the Pacific.

"Dom DiMaggio and Wagner were with me all the time we spent in the Admiralties, New Guinea and Australia," Tom added.

Australia is a warm country but they weren't playing ball when Tom arrived. "I didn't handle a ball all last year," he commented.

Well, here he is back with the Braves after two years in the service, and throwing like a cricketer.

"Hot towel treatment will loosen his shoulder," Bob Coleman says, but he's more hopeful than positive.

Bruin Title Hopes Dim

By BILL GRIMES

Well, the Bruins and Red Wings will now play a best two out of three-game series for the honor of qualifying for the Stanley Cup finals. As a result of Detroit's 3 to 2 victory last night, the Series B is just where it started, all even. After jumping out to a two-game lead, the Bruins dropped, two and now are against the wall. They must win two games on Detroit ice, if this series goes the limit, seven games.

The next game is listed for tomorrow night in Detroit. They come back to Boston for Sunday night's engagement, then go back to Detroit to wind it up next Tuesday night, if the final date is necessary.

If the Rossman, who played inspired hockey to win the first two games in Detroit, couldn't win either of the next two contests here in Boston, it is against all odds that they will be able to take two of the next three, especially when two of those events are in "im" now, and most observers agree with them.

It was a somewhat discouraged squad of Bruins which played Detroit today, but the Wings were conversely jubilant as they hustled to get a late train home last night. Jack Adams and his icemen figure they are "im" now, and most observers agree with them.

At the moment it looks very much as though the Wings will meet the Maple Leafs in the final Stanley Cup grind. The Leafs managed to win last night on their home rink, 4 to 3, to take a 3-to-1 edge over the Canadians in the series which "wise" money had declared would be a romp for the Frenchmen.

Although the Bruins and Red Wings are even stephen after four games, the National Hockey League has profited. The first game in Detroit grossed $18,000 from 10,283 cash customers and 12,136 fans paid $21,000 to sit in on the second contest. The receipts for the two games played at the Garden were approximately $41,000. So, the up to the present decisionless Series B has contributed $80,000 to the "pool." And that isn't hay!

The Bruins were not up to the standards they displayed in the first three games last night. They were unable to protect a one goal lead which they carried into the final period. However, they have an excuse for that lapse, which allowed Joe Carveth to tie the count and Murray Armstrong to slap home the winning tally.

Late in the opening period, Gino Rozzini collided with Flash Hollett in the center zone. He was thrown heavily to the ice and retired with a painfully injured hand. He received treatments from Drs. Martin J. Crotty and Thomas A. Kelley between periods. The second period was in the third minute before he reached the Boston bench. He went out to take his place at center for the Quebec line but in less than a half minute he skated off the ice and went back to the dressing room.

With Rozzini lost for the rest of the game, Art Ross was obliged to call upon Herbie Cain, Bill Cowley and Armand Gaudreault to do double duty. "Cain and Cowley, along with taking their turns with their own line, centered for Paul Gladu and Gaudreault, while the latter worked at left wing on the Cowley line, while Cain was getting a breather.

The first period produced some rugged hockey. The boys weren't pulling any punches. Cowley took a sound licking, as did Gaudreault. So, when it came time for them to double in brass, Cowley, Gaudreault and Cain were not equal to the task. They were pooped, which combined with some rugged defensive playing, plus the absence of back checking, paved the way for the Red Wings to come from behind and walk off with a 3 to 2 verdict.

THE ORIGINAL CHAMBERLAIN STORE ON WASHINGTON STREET AT BOSTON IN 1870

Seventy-five years Young

THE "TEDDY"—styled for Theodore Roosevelt at the turn of the century in the fashion of the "Bough Riders" he made famous.

"YANKEE DOODLE BOY"—In homage to and worn by George M. Cohan... that great "Song and Dance Man" of the American Theatre.

"BELIEVE IT, OR NOT" (with apologies to Ripley)—worn in the so-called "good old days."

Seventy-five years ago... when a pair of fine horses was a mark of elegance... when old horse cars and five cent stogies were national institutions... and when Sister Sue in her new bathing suit, had no fear of the Cape Cod censor... the first Chamberlain generation decided to be hatters.

That was in 1870. Since then three more generations of Chamberlains have fixed their eyes on a horizon of quality hats. Hats made in the New England Tradition... and sold with the idea that only a quality hat... individually styled and properly fitted fully expresses a man's personality.

Metkovich, Wagner Prove Hitters Made

By JOE CASHMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 28—The idea that hitters are born, not made, is the most widely accepted, and at the same time, most frequently disproved of baseball theories.

Plenty of hitters have been made. You need look no further than the Red Sox camp for proof.

How about George Metkovich, who belatedly, and Hal Wagner, who unexpectedly, showed up here yesterday?

If either of these was born a hitter, he lost the knack before he first took a bat in hand. Yet hitting has become the chief baseball asset of both.

Metko started out as a Braves' farmer. His first year at Evansville he batted .227. Sent to Hartford, he batted .238.

Tribal master-minds agreed he couldn't hit. And they were right. He couldn't, back there. So he was sold outright to San Francisco.

Change of scenery didn't improve his sticking. But the instructions of Frank "Lefty" O'Doul did.

Making changes in stance and swing suggested by the old National League batting champ, "Catso" almost over night developed into a .325 performer in the Coast League.

Last season with the Hose he batted only .277, but that was 50 points higher than he had hit in Class B at Evansville.

Moreover, after a slow start, he compiled an average of more than .300 over the last half of the campaign. And, in the process, he hit safely in 25 consecutive games to set an all-time Red Sox record in that respect.

Even more remarkable has been the offensive improvement shown by Wagner, who currently is taking a little time out from an Army furlough to engage in a few workouts with the Hose.

Catcher Hal was with the Athletics five full seasons and part of another before he was acquired by the Sox in exchange for outfielder Ford Garrison last May.

His highest batting average as a Mackman was .253; his lowest .221. In other words, as a Quaker he was an All-American out.

He shifted to the Fens. Joe Cronin went to work on him showing him how to get lift on balls he had been rolling to second sackers for routine outs.

When Pvt. Wagner marched off to an Army camp in mid-September he was leading the American League in batting with a mark of .330.

He had made more hits, more extra base blows and driven in more runs in 77 games as a Fenwayite than he had either of two seasons wherein he caught 104 and 111 games, respectively, for the A's.

It was the appearance of Metko and Wagner which set us to thinking of made hitters, but these two aren't the only examples among the Sox.

Boss Cronin, himself, is a standout illustration. Frisco Joe, as smart, sound and consistent a right-handed stick as the league had produced in the past 20 years, couldn't hit a pampkin with a paddle in his younger days. He was batting .245 for Kansas City when Washington bought him. He hit .243 his first season with the Nats. He looked helpless at the dish. But nobody made Joseph. He made himself by constant practice.

Nor was the bashing Bob Johnson born a slugger. His first year out in the Western League, the big Injun hit only .273. The next two years, in the Coast League, he turned in cards of .254 and .265. Some hitters are born that way. Paul Waner, Joe Medwick, Ernie Lombardi, Teddy Williams, to mention four. But for each one of these, there's a Wagner or Cronin or Johnson or Metko.

De Paul, Oklahoma Rivals for Court Title

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—It will be DePaul vs the Oklahoma Aggies and 6 foot George Mikan vs 7 foot Bob Kurland for the mythical National Collegiate Basketball Championship at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The Aggies won the right to battle for the generally recognized national title by whipping New York University, 49 to 45. De Paul previously had won the Garden National Invitation Tourney by beating Bowling Green of Ohio, 71-54.

Metal Tossers Hockey Menace

By BILL GRIMES

One of these fine nights, the law is going to catch up with the morons who throw steel nuts and bolts on the Garden ice during hockey games and it's going to be just too bad for the culprits. This practice endangers the players. Dit Clapper was all for taking the entire blame for the defeat on himself. "I sure loused up the place," complained Clapper bitterly. But he's all wrong. He had plenty of help, if anyone takes the attitude that the Bruins lost the game. I thought the Red Wings were the better team last night, for the first time in the series.

Just before Earl Seibert's first period goal, little Gino Rozzini crashed into Flash Hollett in front of the Detroit bench and the Bruin sprained and possibly broke a bone in his left hand. He tried to play in the next period, but was forced to quit in about a half minute. He will not go to Detroit, stepping aside for Rus Kopak of the Olympics.

The tickets for the sixth Bruins-Red Wings' game, which will be played Sunday, went on sale this morning at the Garden. The season ticket holders have until 9 o'clock Friday night to pick up their ducaats.

During the final period, a fan sneaked into the runway to the Detroit bench and began to "work" on Jack Adams. A few minutes later, another, or possibly it was the same one, started to pester Art Ross, but he was removed by a couple of John Laws.

The Bruins will never have more opportunities to win a game than last night. They were off form and Harry Lumley had a comparatively easy time, for he was called upon to make but 18 saves to Paul Bibault's 29. And even the most rabid Bruin fans cannot say that Lumley was lucky. He didn't need the assistance of Lady Fortune.

Bill Chadwick received a re-sounding round of boos when he appeared on the ice . . . Among those who saw the Bruins give their worst exhibition of the entire series were Lt. Com. Weston W. Adams, Dr. Charles E. Lewis, the dapper John Wilkinson of Ottawa and his pal, Jack Chin . . . Upon his return from his home up in Springfield, where he had spent his day off, Earl Seibert, Detroit's giant defenseman, reported that his youngster is almost as big as he is . . . Gus Bodnar, the Toronto center ice man, who won the Calder trophy a year ago, isn't much of a goal getter . . . However, he scored a most important one in overtime last night, for it gave the Maple Leafs their third win over the Canucks.

Jimmy Orlando, the former Detroit defenseman, who was tossed out of hockey after a jam with his draft board, wired "Dit" Clapper how to beat the Red Wings. The Bruins must play them in their (Detroit's) own end, where he stated they are very weak. Orlando is in the Canadian Army and is posted at Debert, N. S., which is a jumping off port.

For the first time since the start of the war, the fans put some feeling in the singing of the national anthem. It was really an inspiring community sing.

The Red Wings changed their system last night. They made numerous passouts in front of the Boston cages from the corners, instead of flipping the puck back to the defensemen at the blue lines.

Joe Carveth starred again. He has been the best man on the ice in every game. He is the leading goal getter and has been in the Bruins' hair for four games.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Mell, Zullo Meet Saturday

By BILL SMITH

The Goodwin A. C. broke all precedents by completing plans for the first Saturday night fight show at the Garden ever staged in Boston. The show was made possible as Gus Mell, Canadian batter, agreed to meet Jerry Zullo, Chelsea lightweight, in the feature bout of the evening.

Paired in the 10-round co-feature tussle are Jean Barriere, Montreal featherweight, and Steve Curley who hails from New York.

Immediately preceding this will be an eight-round semi-final bout that will bring George LaRover of Philly and another New Yorker, Jack Peters, together.

Winding up the card will be two four-rounders with Billy Murray of the South End mixing it up with featherweight Lew Masucci of Portland, and Allie Abbott of Providence squaring off against Portland's Bob Pooler.

Ted Williams Hitting Topic of Fanning Bee

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—Notes on a Hoosier hop: Gone, but not forgotten is Ted (The Kid) Williams, the batting scourge of the American League, who entered the Navy three years ago come May 22.

"He's the best man with a stick I've ever seen—and I've seen some pretty good ones," asserted Myril Hoag, one-time New York Yankee team mate of Babe Ruth and Joe Di Maggio. The name of the former Boston Red Sox's blasting outfielder popped up during a fanning bee at the Lafayette, Ind., base of the Cleveland Indians.

"One day I saw him stand flat-footed at the plate in the face of a strong wind and chop—mind you, chop—three doubles against the fence. That made him tops in my books," declared Hoag, now a Tribe outfielder.

Pitcher Jim Bagby, Jr., chimed in: "You could knock him down three times at the plate and on the next pitch, he'd buggy-whip the ball out of the park. Brother, how he can make a pitcher sweat. Even Bob Feller was duck soup for him."

Williams entered the service with a brilliant four-season major league batting average of .356. He belted 127 home runs and batted in 515 runs.

Hank Gowdy, baseball's famed veteran of two wars and coach of the Cincinnati Reds, is the "gunner" of the Redleg camp at Bloomington, Ind. whenever the Reds work indoors. Gowdy feeds the pitching machine that spits baseballs at hitters in the batting nets.

Old Honus Wagner, waddling in his inimitable manner, is keeping a close eye on the Pittsburgh Pirate infield at Muncie, Ind., but the 71-year-old coach isn't jumping to any conclusions. "Wait until the heat's on and then we'll know if those kids can pick 'em like they're supposed to," asserted the immortal shortstop.

Tourney Opening for Hub Nines

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Director of Physical Education Joe Mc Kenney, the one-armed paperhanger of the Boston schoolboys, is leaving the gate wide open for an invitation to the Eastern Mass. baseball championships in arranging the schedule for the neglected intown athletes—putting the issue directly in the hands of the local Headmasters' Ass'n.

As a matter of fact, that's what has been causing the delay in releasing the schedule blueprints.

The Schoolboy Writers' tournament has been tentatively arranged for the first full week in June. Ordinarily, the Boston boys would still be battling it out for the mythical title at that time of the year. But this season, the schedule will be set up so that an entry can be sent into the championship play, inaugurating another step in the advancement of sports in the Hub ranks.

There's little room for doubt in Mc Kenney's mind that the Headmasters will lift the rule they passed last year against participation in sports after the completion of the regular schedule. They waived the law to allow Boston Tech to get into the Metropolitan hockey play-offs and it's generally conceded that they'll follow suit if a Boston baseball team is invited to the diamond carnival in one of the big league ball parks.

Now it's all up to the Boston squads, turning out in force, to produce a strong representative.

Coach Herman McGrath at Boston Tech had the makings of the team that could move into this play until the armed forces stripped his potential strength . . . the Army took John Tibbets, first baseman, Leon Denninger, shortstop, and Bill Criscoli, third baseman . . . Art Chartier, pitcher and outfielder, has moved into the Navy . . . but Coach McGrath still has veterans Joe Reardon, Dick Buvin and John Bobek, pitchers; Mike Barr, catcher, and infielders Walter Molis and John Sullivan . . . he has about 85 candidates working out.

Boston's outstanding basketball player Gus Ryan of Southie, is expected to give the first base job a tryout . . . Coach Steve White has only three veterans back with him . . . they are southpaw pitcher Eddie Wyse, shortstop Cliff Dever and outfielder Roy Glover . . . outfielder Joe Clark, a first stringer as a sophomore, hasn't reported as yet.

The Cambridge schools are going in seriously for basketball next fall . . . Rindge Tech and Cambridge Latin expect to have freshman coaches by the time the grid campaign rolls around . . . meanwhile the baseball clubs of both schools are thriving with talent.

Down on the South Shore, they're talking and acting on a football jamboree for next fall . . . scheduled for one week before the opening of the season
